Nuts NEWS

Brook's bikini bonanza!

Kelly has more changes than a Hollywood awards host!

→ THE BRILLIANT thing about designing your own bikini range, and starring in the shoot (we're not talking from experience, our bodies are more derelict multi-storey car parks than temples) is that you do rather need to snap your catalogue a) outside and b) where it's sunny.

So here, for your delectation, is that Kelly Brook, in a selection of tight bikinis, shooting her collection in a gloriously sun-kissed Miami. You be careful with her, Miami, she's officially a national treasure!

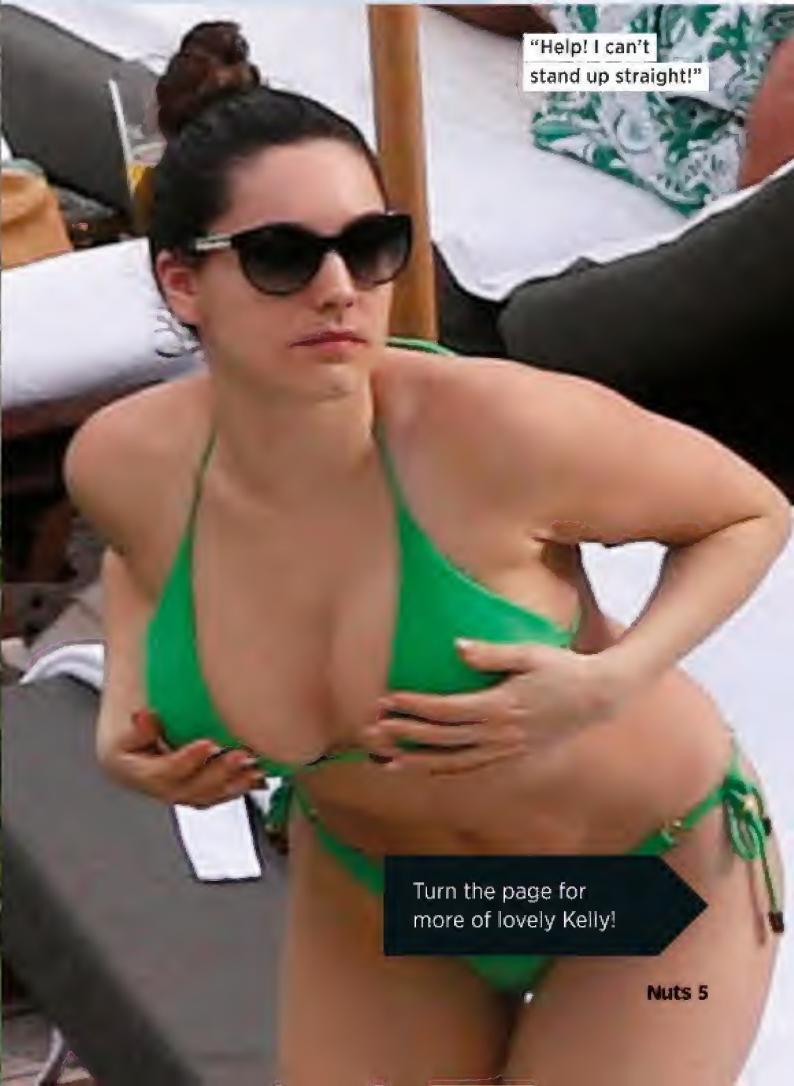

KELLY ON LE TELLY!

Kelly recently played a sexy gun-toting hero in French TV sci-fi series Métal Hurlant Chronicles.

"If that traffic warden touches my Porsche..."

"Honestly, the loo's only a few yards away, Crouchy!"

"Phone, credit card, scrunchie... this is going to leave a bulge"

"And a floater, Crouchy? Really?"

"Phew! All this standing around in a bikini can really tire a girl out"

Fishapocalypse!

Millions of unfortunate fish kark it in Iceland!

→ THIS SORRY sight is actually the second time that the Icelandic fjord of Kolgrafafjordur has witnessed a mass wash-up of dead herring, and no one really knows why.

This scaly lot is estimated to weigh about 30,000 tonnes and is worth around £18.9million.

Depending on current fish exchange rates, obviously. Which can, of course, go down as well as up. And sometimes bob about, aimlessly, near a plastic treasure chest.

WATER TRAGEDY!

Animal carnage!

- Thousands of dead turtle doves rained down on the Italian town of San Cesario in January 2011, dying from indigestion brought on by over-eating sesame seeds.
- Earlier that year, over two million spot fish washed up on the shores of Chesapeake Bay in Maryland, killed stone dead by the stress of freakishly cold water.
- In 2004, over 300 hippos in Uganda's Queen Elizabeth national park died after drinking water laced with anthrax, which forms during the dry season.
- A heatwave in South Korea last year saw official figures quoting the deaths of 786,512 chickens, 40,780 ducks, 3,000 quail, 336 pigs and five cows. Poor cows.

A quick word with Tim Vine

The comic on Elvis, panto and idiot dancing!

→ Hi, Tim! You're in Let's Dance For Comic Relief. Are you wondering what you've let yourself in for?

Absolutely. I've just done my first rehearsal with a choreographer. I didn't even know what a choreographer was until I met this guy. We spent two hours working on 15 seconds and I still haven't got it. So, "What have I let myself in for?" is exactly what I thought. I'm just hoping my knees hold out.

Will you be stopping every ten seconds to deliver a gag?

I wasn't planning on it. But maybe I could dance for five seconds, do some jokes, and dance for five seconds at the end. Great idea!

What dance are you doing?

I initially thought something by Elvis would be in my comfort zone. But it turns out Elvis only had about five moves. So I'm doing something from the last ten years. I'm trying to keep it a secret, but it's not what you'd expect.

Is it street dance?

What, like a lollipop lady? Yes, that's exactly it.

Will you be dressing as a woman like Noel Fielding, or in Lycra like Robert Webb?

I won't be a woman, I can confirm that! Someone gave me a hat and said, "Do you want to borrow that?" There are some very kind people at Comic Relief. And I'm going to get some trainers. I sound like a grandad. "They've got these newfangled things called trainers." Still, better than slippers.

Erm, are you quite the right body shape for dance?

Is this a leading question? I'm not the right body shape. Dancing is harder than it looks. You think, "My right leg goes there, my left leg goes here," and while you're concentrating on that, the next five moves have happened. I did panto this year. I thought I was dancing on that. Turns out I wasn't.

Are you worried about mucking it all up on live TV?

As a comedian, you have the great get-out clause of "I'm an idiot", so if I look like an idiot, it doesn't matter. I'm sure I won't be fantastic. I did Comic Relief Does Fame Academy and I was the fourth out, which was a travesty I've never got over.

Is your dancing better than your singing?

No. I'd rather sing. You only have one thing to remember – the words. Dancing, there are four things to remember: left arm, right arm, left leg, right leg. I almost forgot what the four things were there. I couldn't remember my limbs!

"For the love of God, Brucie, put those back on!"

Ricky Hatton is dancing for Comic Relief too. Could you beat him in a dance-off?

Ricky Hatton must spend hours of his life skipping. So he's got the footwork, hasn't he? He's probably quite nimble.

If it goes well, will you incorporate more dance into your stand-up?

You're assuming this is going to be more of a triumph than I'm expecting. I might incorporate more dance, but only for you.

Thanks! Will you bring any famous friends to support you?

Lee Mack said there was a chance he might have been one of the judges. That would be interesting, if there's a moment where he has the casting vote. I'll be giving him a look like, "Don't even think about it." But I'm pretty sure I'm not going to win. My main thing is to frighten my parents when they're watching at home.

Would you have preferred going up Mount Kilimanjaro or kayaking down the Zambezi like other celebrities have done?

How people do that sort of thing, it's amazing. David Walliams' mum said he's always had that side to his personality where he's very determined, if he wants something, he'll go after it. I'm naturally quite lazy. The side to my personality is if I see an armchair, I'll sit in it.

DANCING QUEEN!
Robert Webb won the 2009 series of Let's Dance, donning a leotard and wig to perform Flashdance.

+ Tim Vine's best gags!

"I'm naturally lazy. If I see an armchair, I'll sit in it!"
Tim Vine

Are you disappointed it isn't Let's Dance On Ice For Comic Relief?

No. I got a call from Dancing On Ice, but I said no. I'm 6ft 2 – if I fall over, things are going to break. I don't want to do anything on ice. I said, if they come up with a show called Dancing On Cushions, come back to me.

Thanks for the chat, Tim. Have you got any good gags about dancing before we go?

Well, I'm actually on anti-barn dance pills. I'll not allowed to exceed the daily dosey dosage!

Insane tornado!

Rare weather vortex
menaces Mediterranean

THE FRENCH island of Corsica is mostly famous for swish holidays, crystal clear seas and inexplicably not belonging to Italy. But you can now add weird weather phenomena to that list, since last week saw a huge tornado drop anchor in the Med.

The huge, hundreds of feet high waterspout whipped itself up north of the resort of Bastia, and showed off for about ten minutes before buggering off, like a particularly angry guff in a lift.

God was enjoying his game
of Battleships

Tornado facts!

- These tornados are formed when layers of cool air blowing over water cause warm, moist air to sweep up from underneath, forming a vortex of condensation.

- In order for a vortex [the swirling mass of the condensation] to be classified as a tornado, it has to be in contact with both the ground and the cloud base.

- The biggest tornado recorded tore through Missouri, Illinois and Indiana in 1925. It travelled 220 miles at 75mph for 3.5 hours, killing 655 people.

- A "super outbreak" of tornados in America and Canada in 1974 saw 148 tornados develop over 18 hours. Sixteen hit the ground simultaneously during its peak.

Soldiers go mental!

American and South Korean squaddies hit the snow!

→ WE'RE SURE it's pure coincidence, but while tensions simmer from "spitting mad" to "premenstrual fury" in Korea, the US army decided to take the opportunity to go on snow patrol/show of force in Pyeongchang, with their chums in the South Korean armed forces.

This military willy-waving consisted of shirtless snow yomps, topless press-ups, throwing snow up in the air for some reason, and Bond movie-style skiing with automatic rifles. The North Korean army was quoted as commenting, "Whatevs!" before kissing their teeth and putting their headphones back on.

ICE-COLD COMMANDOS!

"Dave! I think your satnav needs an update!"

Army's £125k pocket drone!

Watch out Taliban!
We've got remote-control helicopters!

→ MEANWHILE, OUR boys are investing in tech, with a £20m contract to buy 160 Black Hornet drones. Costing £125k a pop, these 10cm-long remote-control helicopters are virtually silent, can be launched in seconds and sent to any location via GPS coordinates, to safely survey target areas from up to a kilometre away, instead of risking sending soldiers in.

Black Hornet facts!

- These are 10cm by 2.5cm, weigh just 16g, can be stuck in a pocket but can reach speeds of 10m/sec, with a flight time of 25 minutes.
- Cameras on the drone relay pictures back to a tablet app which can control the drone from up to a kilometre away.
- The drones can fly on autopilot, or can be sent out on pre-programmed flight paths.
- The reason these 'copters are so expensive is because they're made for all-terrain use, from Arctic tundra to Afghan desert.

Hammond was going to need his booster seat

Ultimate muscle car!

The Dodge Challenger R/T Redline – as American as the Super Bowl and obesity!

- It's been a few years since Dodge stepped back into the muscle-car ring to go against the equally retro-styled Ford Mustang and Chevy Camaro.
- This Challenger is a modern-day homage to its 1970 Challenger forebear – arguably one of the most iconic muscle cars to break out of Detroit. It still looks like a concept car, in a good way.
- Being a hulking great American muscle car means it's as brash and rear-wheel drive as you'd expect. The R/T refers to Rapid Transit, which translates to extra grunt and stickers. The new R/T Redline, however, goes a bit further.
- For starters, there's a grey and red stripe that runs the full length of each side, finishing up over its quarter panels. The Redline also lives up to its name with a set of simple, chunky square-profile 20in alloys, finished in black chrome. Around the outer lip is – yep, you've guessed it – a painted red line. ● Retro-styled cars don't suit body kits, so Dodge has kept the Coke-bottle shaped coupé as was, but added a body-coloured grille surround to the menu and four colours: Bright White, Pitch Black, Billet Silver and Granite Crystal.

● Under the hood is a 5.7-litre "Hemi" V8 breathing through the pair of bonnet nostrils. 375bhp and 410lb/ft is transferred to the tarmac either through a paddle-shift five-speed automatic or a six-speed "Tremec" manual box. This will result in 62mph zooming past in 5.1 seconds, and a top speed of 145mph.

- Interiors are where Yank tanks tend to feature acres of scratchy plastics and Lego Duplo-sized gauges. The R/T Redline is never going to compete with a Merc AMG, but it does get soft Nappa leather in Radar Red or Dark Slate. Tick the automatic option box and you'll get remote start, a Mopar T-handle shifter and a chrome pedal kit.
- A Super Track Pak drops the ride height, adds sticky Goodyear Eagle F1 tyres and uprated brake pads.
- Unbelievably, the basic R/T Challenger is only £18,000, with the R/T Redline package a mere £1,265 extra. But before you reach for the credit card, bear in mind it'll only be available in the UK as a private import and end up about £30k. Even so, storming value.

Tummy op causes gut-wrenching gash!

→ THIS WEEPING wound belongs to Nuts-reading bobby Simon Flowers – the result of a mishap during life-saving surgery to treat a rare stomach condition.

The 27-year-old Leicestershire chap tells Nuts: "I'd been told I had 24 hours to live if they didn't remove my large bowel." Unfortunately for our chopped cop, the wound became infected and the staples had to come out. "As they removed them one by one," he recalls, "all I could see was the wound opening up!"

But despite a six-month stint in hospital, Simon only had one cheery thought on his mind: "When I saw it, my first thought was 'Here's a picture for Nuts!'"

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

I don't have a Valentine!

I'm a bit bummed out because a lot of my mates have girlfriends and I'm going to be alone on Valentine's Day. What can I do to make me feel good about myself?

BILLY Horsham

There's a lot of pressure around Valentine's Day to be with someone, but planned sex is almost always not up to scratch because the anticipation has gone. Women are demanding creatures and men rarely get it right. Plan a singles-only night out with your other mates. Purposely don't speak to any girls – they'll come flooding.

during sex? Won't that just make her feel weird? Help!

TRISTAN via email

The fastest way to find out is to just ask her. Find out what her favourite fetish is. I'm sure if you deliver the goods she'll respond with similar rewards. Start by watching British movies together. She'll need to practise. Why not write a script and role-play it out?

Megan

Introducing a 20-year-old lovely from Leeds!

→ Hi Megan, nice to meet you! How did you enjoy your Nuts shoot?

I've done a few shoots before, but this was the best one by far. I've always wanted to be in Nuts. The girls are the best.

Do you have a favourite?

Lucy Pinder. I'm not that way inclined but, given the chance, I definitely would. Emma Glover also rocks my world.

Tell us a bit about yourself...
I'm a journalism student. I'd love to work for magazines one day, instead of being in them. I'd love to try running Nuts!

Lovely! What are you up to when you're not modelling or looking for scoops?
I waitress at my local pub. Between that and studying, I'm a busy lady. I also love reading thrillers and listening to rap.

What are your best assets?
My boobs. And before you ask, yes, they're all natural!

What do you look for in a bloke?
He must be able to make me laugh. I'd love a date with any of the boys in The Inbetweeners. That'd be hilarious!

We see that you use that there Twitters... Have you ever had any weird requests from any of your male followers?

A guy asked for a photo of my feet. He specified that my toes should be spread apart!

Er, OK! Finally, What's the most surprising thing about you?
I'm a bit of a geek, really. I always have a book in my hands. When I tell people I do modelling, most of them usually don't believe me. They will now! ✘

The man begins laughing hysterically.

The barman asks, "Why are you laughing when you just lost £500?"

The man replies, "Because I bet my mate £1,000 that I could pee all over you and your bar and you would be happy about it!"

PAUL RUDD

Judd Apatow's favourite actor on growing up gracefully, good hair and how to laugh girls into bed!

Hello Paul! Welcome to Nuts! Your new movie This Is 40 is a follow-up to the awesome Knocked Up. What's changed?

A men's mag? Oh God! I'd better be funny. The pressure is on.

Ha-ha! So, in This Is 40, Pete no longer works for the major corporation and has started his own music label. It's a bit niche. Things could be going better. It's a bit of a struggle...

Is turning 40 as big a deal as folk make out?

I definitely feel older than I used to. I don't feel so much like a kid in the way I did even six years ago. There's something even about the word "40". It's got a real weight to it. I'm like, "40!" It just lands! It's different when you tell people, especially people in their 20s. They're like, "How old are you?" "40." Their reaction is always, "No! Really?" Or, "You don't look 40." It's kind of depressing because that means 40 is old!

never what the girls went for. They like to say that's what they go for, but at the end of the day, they're going for Chris Pine.

You have a good head of hair, if that helps. What's your secret?

It's a product that I've cultivated since birth, in my body, and it's called "Swarthy Jew". I wash my hair with it daily. I've always had curly hair and my dad was never bald. He's no longer alive, but he had a full head of hair, and I was so happy about that growing up, but then I remember seeing him later on in life, his chest hair creeping up around the shoulders. He said, "You want it up top, you've got to have it everywhere."

It's Valentine's Day this week. A lot of girls tell us that blokes can seduce them by being funny. Is this really true?

When you get to that age when it's like, "How great would it be to have some sex with some girls?", where I come from, the girls that I wanted to hook up with were not going after guys like me. They were going after all the muscular, athletic, good-looking guys. But then, in high school, it's like, "You mean, if you can make a girl laugh, you might be able to feel her boobs?"

We've been watching repeats of Friends, and you turn up in it quite a fair bit. Was that fun to shoot?

It was surreal. I was only supposed to do two episodes, but it turned out to be a lot more. The entire thing was a blur. I never got over the fact that I was in Friends. It would be my tenth show and I'd still be going, "I can't believe I'm sitting in Central Perk. Oh my God! I've seen this on TV!"

You star alongside our very own Chris O'Dowd in This is 40. He's a pretty big deal in Hollywood now, right?

Yeah, he's super funny! I worked with Chris on Dinner For Schmucks a few years ago. It's tough not to laugh a lot of the time during filming.

Are you a music buff like your character Pete?

I am absolutely an elitist when it comes to music. It ruled my life in my 20s and 30s. I was a fanatic, I knew all the alternative and alt-rock bands, and cool indie bands. Now, I just don't know as much. And I don't care as much.

So what does the rest of the year hold for you?

I'm looking forward to hopefully this year doing some things that are different. I definitely want to get weirder and darker. We'll see!

Cool! Thanks for the chat, Paul. Finally, what one single bit of life advice can you offer our readers?

Whatever you do, you can't take life seriously. We can't take ourselves seriously, that's what I mean. You can take what you do seriously. But take yourself seriously? Urgh.

● This Is 40 is in cinemas on 14 February

You didn't go bonkers and buy a Ferrari, then?
No, I didn't have any of those reactions. It wasn't a big freak-out, midlife crisis moment for me. I feel like I've been having a slow and steady midlife crisis that kicked in around 24 and it's just been a gradual thing. But events in my life that happened before I turned 40 – like having a parent die – were the shift for me. Those made me feel, "Oh, I'm not a kid any more because I've experienced that." When I was 20, I was like, "When I'm 40, I'm going to own a house, I'm going to be really set in my career!"

It's going well! Do you recognise that films such have Knocked Up have made being a bit of a dork quite attractive to girls?
I find that debatable. Growing up, that's How fortunate do you feel to have met [film director] Judd Apatow at still a relatively early stage of your career?

Meeting Judd played a huge part – the biggest part, I suppose – in my career. My goal had just been to be a working actor, but I had always been a comedy fan, and meeting Judd on Anchorman was a tidal shift for me. He put me in The 40-Year-Old Virgin, then Knocked Up. It's crazy and it's been amazing.

DOWN

MAFIA

When a wave of corruption brought death to his neighbourhood, one boy decided to take on the Mafia. Now in hiding, "Nick"* tells Nuts how he became the Robin Hood of Naples...

Hi Nick. You grew up in Naples, the home of the Camorra Mafia organisation. Why did you start plotting against them? I felt I'd been bullied by the church, the government and the Mafia all my life – I called them the unholy trinity. There was an earthquake in Naples in 1980. After the earthquake, even though money was donated to help us, we lived in a shack made of aluminium. It got so cold that many of the other kids in my neighbourhood died of TB. I saw friends die. Ten miles away, you could walk into a villa and see real wealth. The politicians abused us, laughing at us while we were dying. I was blinded by rage.

How come the money never made it through?

The local politicians made fake invoices to industrialists from Swiss companies, so the money never went to Naples – an easy task with corruption so widespread. I was born poor but very intelligent, so I made the world turn in my favour.

What did you do?

I stole the money back from the politicians because the political system had evolved with the crooked Swiss banking system. Politicians and mafiosi alike washed away their sins by giving donations to the church, so I also robbed the church

I attended. I went to Switzerland and came up with a method to steal the money back for my people. I financed 60 per cent of the housing projects of Naples at the time and took a little commission myself. By then I was 16.

How were you able to steal from these powerful people?

I spent my early days with my grandfather, who was a locksmith, so I fell in love with the idea of breaking into safes. Before I was 18, I'd stolen 150 cars, over £3.5m in jewellery and burgled over 90 properties. I upset a lot of people – though I gave away 80 per cent of the money I stole.

When did the Mafia cotton on to what you were doing?

I never knew exactly how they found out, but if I could have avoided racking up large gambling debts, maybe they would never have traced me. I never knew if it was a set-up or just an unfortunate series of events, but I ended up getting together with some small-time crooks and I was invited to a game of poker with them. I left the table 100 grand in debt. My brother was a victim of a vicious attack which left him handicapped for life. It was their way to say, "Pay your debt."

What were the repercussions of that night?

Up until a certain age, I thought I was safe, but because of this one gambling event it was a doubt. My brother was a victim of an attack that left him handicapped and my parents stopped speaking to me, as they knew somehow I was responsible for it. Once you're in it, the underworld's impossible to get out of – it's like quicksand. I lost my family, my identity, my friends and the ability to go back to my home city.

From that point, did you immediately go into hiding?

I didn't actually, because if I'd suddenly gone missing it would have been noticed. Instead I hid in full view –

THE CAMORRA AT A GLANCE!

- The Camorra is a criminal organisation, based in Naples in southern Italy.

- Locals call it "The System" as it infiltrates every aspect of Neapolitan life.

- Unlike the Mafia in Sicily, the Camorra is made up of over 100 criminal gangs.

- It makes money from cigarette smuggling, drugs and controlling local government contracts like waste disposal.

no matter how heavy the thing got, I tried to be the usual smiley teenager even when I had the weight of the world on my shoulders. I think that was the only thing that I did right.

Didn't your methods also damage the Mafia in the USA?

I came up with an idea – rather than doing what the FBI was doing at the time and getting people to go to court to testify, I got the criminals to fight one another. Two senior guys from the FBI took me to see the number two of the organisation. They wanted to thank me for my "flash of genius". I gave them a whole new perspective on crime fighting and they took my ideas back to the USA.

What's the situation with the Camorra at the moment?

They're not as powerful as they were, which is worse. In my day, you were better having one person in charge than having a fragmented system. Even though I brought down the main guy, more people took his place and it became more chaotic.

We see a great deal of Mafia ferocity dramatised in film and TV. How realistic is that?

No movie can ever give a faint idea of what it's like. Living with the constant fear of being caught is a strain that pop-culture can't convey. The closest comparison is like living with a terminal disease, but the doctors can't say for sure when you'll die. X

LUCY PINDER

Nuts

Lucy Pinder

"Lacey looked gorgeous in the Big Brother house!"

Hi Lucy! What's new with you? Everything's pretty much the same! I'm just thinking about cakes a lot today. I think it's because I baked a rather lovely lemon drizzle cake recently.

Yum! Have you considered going into erotic baking?

I was saying this to Emma Glover because we both bake a lot. We should open an erotic bakery. It's a great idea! I think we're really onto something. We can get Chanelle and her bakery involved, too. You know, me and Michelle Marsh jumped out of a cake for a magazine once.

If your boobs were cakes, what type would they be?

If I had cakes for boobs, I'd want them to be big cherry Bakewells. That's sexier than a pair of Christmas puddings!

True! What cakes would you serve at your erotic bakery?

We'd do penis cakes for hen parties and booby cakes for the boys. Can you believe I've never had a boob cake in my life? Every birthday, I'm like, "Someone, get me a booby cake." For my next birthday, Nuts needs to find someone to recreate my boobs out of cake!

You were recently voted the second-sexiest Big Brother contestant of all time. Who would be your sexiest?

Was I? Wow. How does anyone remember I was in there? Gosh. There have been so many. There have been some really sexy girls like Rhian and Danica and Lacey. I'm very pleased I've come second in that vote, though.

How did you think Lacey got on in the CBB house?

I thought she was brilliant. She looked gorgeous. She was just herself. It's funny, if you want to be a glamour model, it seems you need to go on Big Brother! I prefer the celebrity version because ►

"I've got very good boob-genes!"

you get to form opinions on people you already recognise.

There are lots of new Nuts babes for 2013. Have any caught your eye?

There are so many, I couldn't possibly choose. I know that's very diplomatic, but they're all fit in their own booby way.

What do you think of aspiring young glamour models who look up to you?

It's very flattering when young girls say, "I'd really like to do what Lucy's done."

Do they give you boob envy?

No. It's nice because they're really enthusiastic but I'm like, "Oh, you poor dears. Bless." I'm happy I started when I did.

Like a fine wine or a good cheese, do you think boobs get better with age?

I think so. I think women get fitter as they get older. Look at Kelly Brook. When she stops getting her boobs out, I'll stop getting my boobs out. She's 33 and she still looks hot.

How do you keep your boobs on top form?

I think a lot of it's in your genes. I've got very good Pinder boob-genes.

You played a vampire in Strippers vs Werewolves. Would you rather be a stripper, a vampire or a werewolf?

A vampire, definitely. I loved horror films as a kid and I really wanted to be a vampire. I never understood why people wouldn't want to be turned into a vampire. Everyone runs away. I'd be like, "Come on, make me a vampire. I want to live forever and be able to fly!"

Which Nuts babes would be the best help in surviving a zombie attack?

I'd need them all! Me, Emma Glover, Kelly Hall and Sophie Howard would save the world from zombies, then we'd turn into zombies at the end. I'll be the leader and do the talking and none of the action. ▶

“Food, sex and sleep are the best things in the world!”

It's nearly Easter. Are you giving up anything for Lent? No way, that's no fun!

What would you rather give up - food, booze or sex?

Booze, easily. I could easily do without booze over food and sex. The other two are way better. Food, sex and sleep are the best things in the world.

What was the last thing that made you blush?

With all the strange stuff I get sent on Twitter, I'm not easily embarrassed any more.

Do you ever get asked out by people out on Twitter?

Yes. I get offered to be taken to Nando's a lot.

Why do people think the best way to woo you is with chicken?

I don't know. A lot of models love Nando's. Maybe that's why.

What are you making of your beloved Southampton's season in the Premier League?

Disappointing, really. We've been unlucky. We've lost most games by one or two goals. It's not like we've been getting thrashed every week.

One day, would you like to be a Karren Brady-style female footballer executive?

Yes. She doesn't get any of the flack, does she? I'd like to shout at some footballers. That would be good. I could discipline them, couldn't I?

Thanks, Lucy! What else has 2013 got in store for you?

Lots more glamour modelling. I'm reaching a major milestone in my modelling career...

Congratulations! Another year of booby fun. How do you plan to celebrate?

By getting my boobs out even in photo shoots!

Is it possible to get them out any more than you do already?

That sounds like a challenge! Yes, I want to be in even more pretty pictures in Nuts, please!

LADIES CONFESS! TO OUR SECRETARY!

Racy revelations from our female readers!

CONFESION OF THE WEEK!

'My rude train ride home'

I RECENTLY went on a date with a really hot guy and we ended up getting quite tipsy and very frisky. After the date, we both needed the same train home. We sat in the last carriage and when the train started moving, I pulled down his zip and gave him oral. People got off the train and walked past the window but we just carried on! As things heated up, he was rock hard and I was really wet, so I pulled my pants to the side and straddled him. We had the most amazing sex and I had a very loud orgasm as the train rumbled along!

Victoria via email

'Our frisky lock-in'

AT MY local pub we used to have lock-ins, and a few of us would often end up sleeping there. After one boozy evening, there was just my boyfriend and me left. As the landlord went up to bed, I asked my fella if he fancied one last game of pool before we hit the sack. As I bent over to break, I realised he had a different game in mind – he stood behind me and pulled my trousers and panties down and started to play with me from behind. Pleasure rippled through my body as he turned me around, picked me up and laid me on the pool table, sending the balls flying out of the way. He thrust into me hard and fast. It didn't take either of us long to climax. When the landlord brought us a fry-up in the morning, I had a huge grin on my face. I just hope he didn't know the real reason for the smile!

Laura via email

'We went to a strip club'

MY BOYFRIEND and I had just moved in together, so to celebrate, we went out drinking. After dancing for ages in a club, I suggested we went to a strip bar. Before we knew it, we were receiving a joint dance from a very busty Latina girl which really got us in the mood. In the cab home, I spread my legs, begging my boyfriend to touch me up. He quickly obliged and we tried to talk normally to cover up our dirty antics. We were let out of the cab one road before home, found a tree next to a car park and ended the night on a real high!

'My overtime surprise'

I WAS working late at my office one night. All of my colleagues had gone home and there was just me and a hot maintenance guy left. My face started to flush as I caught him grinning at me and when he walked towards my table my heart started to race. He told me he'd finished his work but he'd love to stay a little longer. I knew exactly what he meant, so I swivelled my chair towards him and stood up so that we were face to face. He grabbed me and started kissing me. It wasn't long before we'd raced through the foreplay and I was completely naked and bent over the desk as he entered me from behind. It was definitely the best sex I'd ever had. The thought of everyone working in there the next morning made it all the more thrilling!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Bethany

19 Liverpool

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"This was really naughty, but I once had sex on a trampoline. It was one of my best experiences ever, and something everyone should try at least once in their lives. You can imagine just how bouncy that was!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"That's such a tough one. I really like being done doggy-style, though!"

3 What turns you on?

"I love it if a guy smells really nice. And I have a definite thing for men with ginger hair. Gingers drive me wild!"

4 What's your favourite position?

"It has to be doggy-style, every time!"

5 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"I want to get into bondage. I'd love to tie my man up. That way, I could do whatever I want to him. I love the idea of dominating in the bedroom."

6 Is it better to give or receive?

"Well, I love to receive, but I really don't mind giving a bit, either!"

7 Ever got it on with another girl?

"Of course I have! Me and my best friend are very close. We do absolutely everything together."

8 What's your favourite role-playing costume of choice?

"Recently, I've become pretty obsessed with latex. I completely love the stuff, and wish I could wear it all the time. I'd wear it everywhere – not just in the bedroom!"

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"Not yet, but now you've put the idea in my head, I'm definitely going to consider making one!"

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?

"My boyfriend and I once had dirty sex on a couch, while another couple were sitting on another couch in the same room. They were completely oblivious to what we were up to. It was so naughty!"

Real Madrid vs Man United!

Jonathan Pearce compares the footy giants before their Champions League clash!

→ THIS WEEK, Real Madrid and Man United square up in the big tie of the last 16 of the Champions League. Match Of The Day's Jonathan Pearce delivers his verdict.

- Real Madrid vs Man United, Sky Sports 2/HD, Wed 13 February, 7.45pm.

FOOTY FANATIC!

Jonathan's interest in the game extends beyond the top level – he's an avid Bristol City fan!

MANAGERS

REAL MADRID RATING: 8/10

SIR ALEX FERGUSON may be the greatest ever British manager, but he craves a third European crown to emulate Liverpool legend Bob Paisley. Sir Alex enters the tie from a position of strength, with United hot favourites for the Premier League title, and he made Europe's most significant signing of the season in Robin van Persie. JOSE MOURINHO also yearns for a third Champions League title. It could be the only thing that saves his job. Injuries and politics have wrecked Real's domestic season. They're fighting for the runners-up spot with Atletico. He's cornered. That makes him dangerous."

MAN UNITED RATING: 9/10

GOALKEEPERS

DEFENDERS

"Man United have kept just six clean sheets in their last 20 Champions League matches. They'll need to match the concentration levels of the quarter-final first leg at Chelsea in 2011, when Vidic and RIO FERDINAND were superb. They must protect De Gea better and deal with set-pieces. Real Madrid have been unsettled all season – Carvalho missed the opening weeks, Marcelo has hardly played since October, Ramos has been banned, Pepe's on his way back from ankle surgery. Admittedly, RAPHAEL VARANE has done well but Man City created enough at the Bernabeu to suggest United will score."

MIDFIELDERS

"MICHAEL CARRICK has been outstanding for United but they struggled to create at home against Galatasaray and Cluj. Will they play wide men to counter Real's attacking full-backs or three narrow midfielders? If only Giggs and Scholes were five years younger. Real edge it with their variety. XABI ALONSO's the most astute defensive midfielder in Europe and Khedira can also hold or drive on with great effect. Di María can provide width. Ozil can make a real impact from the bench with Luka Modric set to start. United missed out on signing him. Could he return to haunt them?"

STRIKERS

"ROBIN VAN PERSIE should be European Footballer of the Year. He's been the difference between Man United and their Premier League title rivals. Wayne Rooney hasn't scored from open play in this season's Champions League. This could be his time, while waiting in the wings is Hernandez. United will score in both legs. They're not a one-man band. CRISTIANO RONALDO is a huge threat. United can't afford to concede silly free-kicks with him about. He's scored more than Benzema (who netted twice against Man City), Higuain and Di María put together, but they're over-reliant on him."

Overall

MADRID 38/50 - UNITED 40/50

"If United score in the away leg and shackle Ronaldo, they'll win the tie. Both defences look vulnerable, but I can see United edging it in the second leg."

RELEGATION SPECIAL!

Merse: 'My tips for the drop!'

The Sky Sports pundit and Nuts legend on this season's Premier League relegation battle!

→ IT'S THAT time of the season. All the transfer wrangling's done, and the teams at the bottom are preparing for the fight. Who knows who'll stay up and who'll be starting next season in the Championship? Nuts asked Paul Merson to cast his expert eye over the relegation contenders...

"Oh, sod it! Come on lads, let's all go down the pub!"

READING

PLAYER QUALITY: "They're a bit lacking in certain areas but work well as a unit. That's so important."

TEAM SPIRIT: "No luck for the first six months, but the tide's now turned and they've had some fantastic results."

PEDIGREE: "Brian McDermott won Manager Of The Month for January. The team can carry that forward."

LIFESAVER: "JIMMY KEBE is a great outlet - a vital player."

VERDICT:
SAFE!

WIGAN ATHLETIC

PLAYER QUALITY: "They're capable of beating anybody on their day but can just as easily lose."

TEAM SPIRIT: "It was a miracle they stayed up last season - the fans haven't had much to cheer about."

PEDIGREE: "Last year, they surprised a lot of people, but they've been found out this time around."

LIFESAVER: "ROBERTO MARTINEZ - they have to keep hold of him."

VERDICT:
DOOMED!

NEWCASTLE

PLAYER QUALITY: "They bought players during the transfer window who've settled very quickly."

TEAM SPIRIT: "Back-to-back wins against Villa and Chelsea have made all the difference. They look a unit now."

PEDIGREE: "They punched above their weight last season, meaning expectations were too high this term."

LIFESAVER: "YOHAN CABAYE really makes things happen. He's superb."

VERDICT:
SAFE!

ASTON VILLA

PLAYER QUALITY: "They invested heavily at the start of the season but moved on too many older players."

TEAM SPIRIT: "Overall, Villa are too inexperienced for the fight. One outstanding defender could have made a difference but they're vulnerable."

PEDIGREE: "They must start winning games immediately to stay up."

LIFESAVER: "CHRISTIAN BENTEKE has the quality but it's going to be tough."

VERDICT:
DOOMED!

SOUTHAMPTON

PLAYER QUALITY: "They've got good players who are performing well."

TEAM SPIRIT: "Getting rid of Nigel Adkins at such a crucial time was a huge mistake. Madness!"

PEDIGREE: "One of those clubs that go up or down almost every season.

They need to consolidate."

LIFESAVER: "If RICKIE LAMBERT had more pace, he'd be playing for England by now. Sadly, he doesn't."

VERDICT:
SAFE!

QPR

PLAYER QUALITY: "They keep clean sheets, but have serious problems scoring goals – it's a fatal flaw."

TEAM SPIRIT: "Despite their problems, one of their strengths is their morale.

They work for each other."

PEDIGREE: "A lot of their players looked like world-beaters in the Championship, but need to step up."

Wilshere is a star!

Arsenal midfielder makes the Three Lions play in a whole new way

→ BRAZIL MAY not be the side they once were but make no mistake, beating them at Wembley was a great achievement by Roy Hodgson's England.

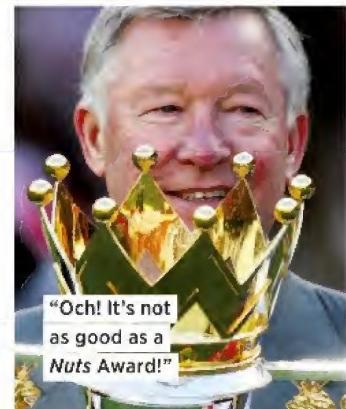

None of the Brazilian players of today would get in the sides of old, but if England had lost, we'd never have heard the end of it. This was a huge, morale-boosting victory – and at the very centre of it was Jack Wilshere.

What a player this lad is! In the past, England used the midfield as a way of getting the ball to the front men as quickly as possible. Wilshere, however, holds the ball and makes opposition midfielders come to him, leaving gaps open to exploit. On Wednesday, he and Gerrard completely dictated what happened in that part of the field.

Theo Walcott was also great, creating chances for Rooney, though Danny Welbeck felt like a weak link on the left, but that's to be expected as it's not his natural position. We need a forward on the left – Daniel Sturridge could be that man.

For Hodgson, there can be no going back. In the Euros, as soon as we came up against decent opposition, we looked outclassed. Not any more. Qualification for the World Cup is a certainty. How England perform is anyone's guess but I'm optimistic, which feels great.

No one can catch United

IT'S LOOKING more and more certain that Manchester United are going to win a 20th league title – they simply look unstoppable.

When they lost the title on the final day of last season, Sir Alex Ferguson worked out that their problem was in the goal-scoring department, so he promptly signed Robin van Persie. He's been a huge success at Old Trafford and absolutely vital in their assault this season.

Man City, on the other hand, haven't built on their success. They also bought in the summer, but the likes of Jack Rodwell and Scott Sinclair haven't been playing. The sad truth for City fans is that the title is more than likely going across town once more – and they're powerless to stop it.

- Send jokes, comments, pics etc to kammy@ipcmedia.com. The best one each week wins a signed Nuts T-shirt!

Cheers, Carra. We're gonna miss you!

JAMIE CARRAGHER is a fantastic footballer, so I was sad to read of his decision to retire at the end of this season, after over 700 appearances in the red shirt of Liverpool. When you think of Liverpool, he's the player who comes to mind, alongside Steven Gerrard. He's a proper, old-fashioned footballer – the fan on the pitch who represents the dreams of the supporters.

People have the impression that footballers are arrogant idiots, but 95 per cent are lovely people, and you couldn't get one more accessible than Jamie.

He and Gerrard started at Liverpool as Scousers, and Jamie leaves it the same way – a normal lad who just happens to be an extraordinary footballer.

This week's biggest match debaters!

"The live coverage is live"

It wouldn't be live if it wasn't, Jeff Stelling.

"You don't find the sort of forwards we want in the street"

Arsene Wenger has finally stopped going through the bins.

"Ryan Nelson thought the ball had gone somewhere, but it hadn't"

It had to go somewhere. Ray Wilkins.

"You couldn't buy Adam Le Fondre's right sock for £300,000"
Brian McDermott on a pricey kit.

OO-ER SOUNDS A BIT RUDE CORNER !

"Ricky Lambert put it straight down Tim Howard's throat"

Sky's Davie Provan on a real mouthful.

"Craig Mackail-Smith knows what he wants – and that's pulling off"

Phil Thompson on the desperate striker.

"Paul Scharner will give you it at both ends"

Thommo on Wigan's sex god.

THE NUTS LIP READER

When he watches a match, he sees every word!

John Cassidy is a real lip-reading expert. And a fully paid-up FA coach to boot!

Roy Hodgson:
“Hey, come on!
Pass the ball
somehow!”

ENGLAND VS BRAZIL Wembley, 6 February, 9.08pm
Uncle Woy offers some encouragingly vague instructions.

NEWCASTLE VS CHELSEA St James' Park, 2 Feb. 4.16pm
Ashley's aggrieved after Papiss Cisse grabbed his throat.

Wayne Rooney:
“Three times
he hit me with the elbow!”

ENGLAND VS BRAZIL Wembley, 6 February, 9.19pm
Wazza has a quiet word with the ref at the full-time whistle.

Harry Redknapp:
“Ah, you ct!”

QPR VS NORWICH Loftus Road, 2 February, 1.57pm
'Arry gets swearing after Adel Taarabt's penalty is saved.

Potty mouth corner!

Goran Popov:
“Fk off! What the fk you want?
Fking hell, for what? Fk!”

WEST BROM VS SPURS The Hawthorns, 3 February, 2.32pm
And a volley of verbals wasn't all the Baggies star unleashed.

Singer Katherine Jenkins used to be a tour guide on the London Eye.

The first recipe for haggis was published in an English cookery book in 1615.

Because of a 1313 law, it's illegal to enter the Houses Of Parliament wearing a full suit of armour.

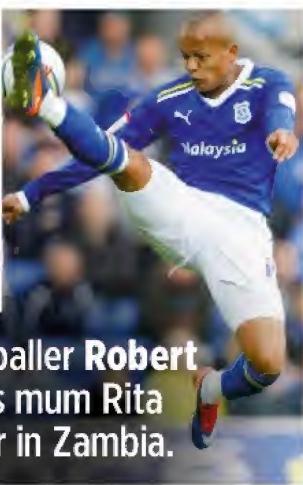

Three countries in the world are fully landlocked by another country – Lesotho, Vatican City and San Marino. The latter two can be found inside Italy.

To date, only one British Prime Minister has ever been assassinated – Spencer Perceval in 1812.

The Pulp song 59 Lyndhurst Grove is named after the location of a party in Peckham from which Jarvis Cocker was thrown out.

Welsh footballer Robert Earnshaw's mum Rita was a boxer in Zambia.

Pub ammo on... Sinister

- The real name of the evil "Mr Boogie" in horror flick Sinister is "Bughuul" – Mr Boogie is just the rather cuter nickname given to him by the children.

- The actor who plays Bughuul, Nicholas King, also did some stunts in the new Arnie film, The Last Stand.
- When Ethan Hawke's character receives a - climactic phone call revealing the killer's identity, you can see his phone has no signal.

- Sinister* is released on DVD and Blu-ray this week.
